A two-months old baby of A. Porter Smith died at 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

The debris caused by the fire a month ago, on West 7th street, is still burning.

Mrs. Lewis Garth, of Trenton, fell and sprained her wrist quite badly last week.

Jailer Long's list of boarders is increasing. There are now 21 inmates in his popular hotel.

The temperature fell 45 degrees between the hours of 11 p. m., Saturday and 2 a. m., Sunday.

John Young can now be found at the barber shop of his brother, Marcus, ready to serve his old customers.

This being leap-year, young ladies would do well to look twice before they leap, as darkness sometimes lurks near the brightest light.

A number of parties in this county, holding tickets in the Louisiana Lottery, drew prizes ranging from $5 to $50 in the drawing last week.

Mr. W. R. Long has moved his stock of groceries into the new building on 6th street, recently built by Anderson & Tate, next to R. M. Anderson's.

It is more than likely that a bank will be started in Trenton at an early day. The matter has been under consideration for sometime and a favorable report has been made.

We will give you a larger pile of coal for your money than you can possibly procure elsewhere in this market. Try us.

J. F. GORDON & Co., Office, Wheeler, Mills & Co.

A double marriage which was to have taken place last week, was indefinitely postponed.

The young lady who was to be married, was a daughter of the late John Johnson, colored.

Winfree, Saturday, for violating the Prohibition law and fined $50 and costs. He gave bond for the payment of same and was released.

Cottage for rent on Maple street recently vacated by John W. Payne, 5 good rooms, cellar, cistern, servant house, coal house and stable, abundance of ground for gardening purposes. Apply to John W. Payne or F. L. Waller.

Buck Berry, a colored boy, accidentally discharged a double-barreled gun while out hunting near Casky, Saturday, the load tearing away all the flesh on the right breast and shoulder and wounding him so badly that his recovery is doubtful.

Henry Henderson was married to Miss Annie Hilory, at the residence of the latter's parents, in Bowling Green, at 4:30 o'clock last Wednesday. The couple left on the 5:15 train, arriving here at 8:30 and will make this city their home. Mr. Henderson being engaged in mercantile pursuits here.

Griffin Ross, colored, was committed to jail, Saturday, charged with the serious offense of burning a barn belonging to Frank Tandy, who resides in the eastern part of the county, on the 28th of Dec., last. J. D. Moore, of Pembroke made the arrest and with the aid of Lawrence, his brother, brought the prisoner to the city.

Mrs. R. A. Major, died on the 12th inst. at the residence of her son, Edgar Cayce. She was 73 years old and had led a life of usefulness, being a member of the Christian church. She leaves a family of eight children—three sons and five daughters—to mourn her loss. Her remains were interred at the family burying ground near Beverly.

Mrs. Nellie O. Hester, formerly of Lafayette, but now of Slater, Mo., was married at the latter place on the evening of the 28th ult. to Eld. W. E. Mobley, a well known elder of the Christian church in this State. The bride is a highly educated and accomplished lady who has been teaching a select school in Slater for the past two years. The couple will return to Kentucky in a short while, to reside.

The examining trial of Cosby and Hanna, both colored, charged with attempting to wreck a passenger train on the L. & N. R. R., last week came up for a hearing before the County Judge, Saturday. In default of a bond of $500 for each, they were returned to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury. The evidence is strong against them and a conviction is almost certain.

If there is one thing most essential to the happiness of a weary traveler, it is a good meal, and it is so seldom a good eating house is crossed on a railroad that when one is found it is appreciated. Such is the popularity of the Grant Hotel at Guthrie, under the management of Mr. Rogers, to which it is justly entitled, for no one can leave the tables without an expression of satisfaction on his face.

Willie Brewer, the 18-year-old son of W. A. Brewer, of Crofton, died of pneumonia last Thursday and was buried Friday. He was the sole support of the family, his father having been afflicted for a number of years and unable to work, and will be sadly missed by him. He was a sober, industrious, energetic young man, liked by all and his many friends and acquaintances turned out in mass to witness the burial of his remains.

"He Never Smiled Again!" No "hardly ever" about it. He had an attack of what people call "billsness," and to smile was impossible. Yet a man may smile and be a villain still, still he was no villain, but a plain, blunt, honest man, that needed a remedy such as Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which never fail to cure billsness and disease of the liver, dyspepsia and chronic constipation. Of druggists.

DEATH OF MR. ROBT. A. BAKER.

Last Friday night, at 10 p. m., at the residence of Mr. Jno. W. Payne, on Fifteenth St., Robt. A. Baker, passed quietly away into the great unknown.

He had been afflicted with cancer for several years, but not until about six months ago did it assume a malignant state. In vain did he seek relief from the mineral waters, of Eureka Springs, and from eminent physicians, but in spite of all efforts to arrest the continued destruction of his neck and face, inflicting upon him a most severe death.

Mr. Baker was born in Trigg county, but spent most of his business career in this city, engaging in the handling of wheat and tobacco. He was 45 years of age, and had lived a member of the Baptist church for seventeen years, at which church his funeral took place Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. N. Prestridge, assisted by Rev. W. E. Keller, who was a companion and close friend of Mr. Baker's during the war. His remains were interred in the city cemetery.

Robt. A. Baker, was one of the most companionable, unselfish, and liberal hearted gentlemen it has ever been our pleasure to know, and in his death the community loses one whose place will be hard to fill. Those who knew him, were drawn closer to him by his gentle, pleasing manner, and to see one so useful and universally popular taken in the prime of life, serves but to burden the hearts of those who were attached to him, with the deepest grief. The bereaved relatives have the sympathy of the entire community.

A telegram was received yesterday morning by Mrs. M. Lewis, stating that her brother, Major B. M. Ricketts was found dead near Gracey Station, Wednesday morning. No further particulars could be learned.

Children Starving to Death.

On account of their inability to digest food, will find a most marvelous food and remedy in Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Very palatable and easily digested. Dr. J. W. COOPER, of Waco, Texas, says: "I have used your Emulsion in infantile wasting with good results. It not only restores wasted tissues, but gives strength and increases the appetite. I am glad to see such a reliable article." DR. CHARLES C. GARNETT, Calver, Texas, says: "I have used your Emulsion for over a year, and have derived much benefit from it in the treatment of children, being tolerated by the stomach when all other medicines were rejected."

Lyons' Tasteless Chill Tonic is as pleasant to taste as Lemon Syrup and children eat it and never know it is medicine; never fails to cure Sores. Sold by H. B. Garner.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria, When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria, When she became a Woman, she clung to Castoria, When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Children take Lyons' Tasteless Syrup of Quinine and never know it is medicine, 25 cts. Sold by H. B. Garner.

"O what is friendship but a name, A charm that lulls to sleep, Low prices on all grades, his theme, All say his goods are cheap."

"Love is still an empty sound, The modern fair one's jest," In his rooms best goods are found, In fact the very best.

Then why not go at once and see, The largest stock in town, Every one that's seen, agree, No better can be found.

We're not here to buy the moon, But we have tried the game, We hope you will favor us soon, And don't forget his name.

My stock of Coffins and Robes embrace all grades from the best to cheapest and my aim is to satisfy both in price and goods.

DIVINES DISAGREE.

A Discussion Not Decided by Prayer, Intolerance of Opinion.

The following is an extract from a late New York Tribune editorial: "There is, perhaps, no mental vice so common as intolerance of opinion. Even such as think they have emancipated themselves from the clinging defect find it hard to acknowledge frankly to themselves that the opinion of some one else upon a matter they have studied may very well be as deserving of respect as their own. If it differs radically from their own, if we could all get rid of this last infirmity, not only of 'noble minds,' but of nearly all human minds, how much less friction there would be in life, how much less bitterness and heart-burning and envy and all uncharitableness."

In an adjoining column of the same paper was found the following peculiar commentary on the editorial: "The bitterness of the controversy in the American Board over the question of probation after death was very great. This rather shocked the simple-minded and earnest foreign missionaries who attended the sessions of the Board, one of whom said he had always thought such questions were decided by prayer. But the debate was not altogether without its merits. It apparently some of them consulted it often than the Bible."

It is a fact that there is but little toleration in this country, and less than in others? "Comparisons are odious," said Mr. Malaprop. Perhaps we have been claiming too much for this free nation.

We must admit that in the profession there is yet much of the time prejudice against ideas. Preachers preach the old doctrines and doctors prescribe the old medicines. Bitter controversies arise when anything new is proposed.

But the march of progress is not stayed. Men are travelling heavenward under new creeds and being cured by new medicines.

Much the same state of facts seems to exist in other countries. When Dr. Brown, a leading physician of London, formerly of the Royal Navy, proclaimed that Warner's safe cure was a specific in kidney derangements, the home-bound school to which he belonged threatened to ban him from practice, if he did not recant. But he replied that his statement was based on such evidence that he could not recant.

Since then, Dr. Wilson, P. R. S. E., editor of "Health," a recognized English authority, announces in his magazine that "Warner's safe cure is of a perfectly safe character and perfectly reliable." Many English physicians are now prescribing it.

"The school" in this country still bar all proprietary medicines. But Dr. Gunn, Dean of a New York Medical College, long since published: "Warner's safe cure is a very valuable remedy," and says he knows that many physicians prescribe it though not by name.

Good things in creed or practice are not to be cried down by the old dogmas simply because they are new. The spirit of toleration thrives on opposition.

For the Benefit of the Sick.

TO PREVENT LOCKjaw—Apply turpentine to the cut.

HEMORRHOIDS from the lungs can be readily stopped by eating a little salt.

EYE-SHEDS—Dr. Atkins finds a lotion of one drachm of borax in one ounce of glycerine, the best external application.

RHEUMATISM—A new remedy which several physicians have been using lately is oil of winter green, given in ten drop doses every two hours for acute rheumatism.

THE BLACK APPEARANCE caused by a bruise may be prevented by dipping a cloth in hot water and applying as hot as can be borne. Do this as soon as the bruise is received.

FOR A CUR—There is nothing better than powdered resin. Sift a little over the cut, put soft cloth around it and wet it once in a while; it will prevent soreness and inflammation.

FOR BRUISES OR SPRAINS—Bathe the part in cold water until a decoction of warm wood and vinegar can be made ready; then bathe in that. When the warm wood cannot be had use arnica.

THE SICK CHOLERA MIXTURE—Equal parts of tincture of opium, red pepper, rhubarb, peppermint and camphor. Dose, five to twenty drops as often as desired. Good for diarrhoea.

GOOD COUGH REMEDY—Boil one ounce of horbarbous in a quart of water, until all the strength is out; strain, then add 1/2 sticks of licorice and one pint of molasses or honey. Simmer to one pint. Take a tablespoonful three times a day.

A TRASPONDUL of finely pulverized charcoal in a half glass of warm water often relieves sick headache, because it absorbs the gases caused by the fermentation of undigested food.

It is also good for diarrhoea, poultices for old sores and wounds.

CURE FOR STY.—Dr. Louis Fitzpatrick has found, after many trials, the local application of tincture of iodine to check the growth. The lids should not be allowed to come in contact until the part touched becomes dry. A few applications in twenty-four hours is sufficient.

BURNS AND SCALDS.—The best of all remedies is common baking soda. It may be used on the surface of the burned place either dry or wet. When applied promptly the cause of relief is magical. It is also the best application for eruptions caused by poison ivy and other poisonous plants, and also the bites and stings of insects.

HEREDITARY SCROFULA.

History of a Very Remarkable Case.

The following voluntary statement attested by well known citizens of Arkansas, was recently received by the S. S. S. Company, the writer requesting its publication. It is certainly one of the most remarkable instances of the cure of hereditary scrofula on record. The convalescent is a member of a prominent family in Arkansas. This peculiar case again emphasizes the all most miraculous power also my father and grandfather died of the most dangerous forms of blood disease. It will be observed that several well-known physicians attest the truth of Mr. Crouch's statement. Mr. Crouch writes that he is continuing the use of the S. S. S. in order to eradicate the last lingering vestiges of the dreadful malady from which he suffered for so many years, and is doing so by the direction of one of the most prominent physicians in the State.

ARKADELPHIA, ARK., Nov. 1, 1887. The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.: Gentlemen—Few have experienced so great an affliction as myself. For the benefit of the afflicted, I make, for publication, a statement of the wonderful benefit which I experienced from the use of your providential remedy. I have suffered for sixteen years from this affliction, of which also my father and grandfather died. Hereditary scrofula attacked me first at the age of twelve years, rapidly increasing till it reached its severest form. During all this time I tried the various remedies which I could hear of, and consulted various physicians, with no effect. I was pronounced incurable.

After the use of the first bottle of S. S. S., I experienced decided benefit. After the second bottle I had in half a dozen of those terrible cancerous ulcers on different parts of my body, and the palate of my mouth was almost eaten away. I have used the S. S. S. with continuing benefit. I was in an almost hopeless condition, and could not rise from my bed without help. I now have only one of the sores and a stiffness in my neck, and I feel, and am by direction of one of the most prominent physicians in the State.

Yours respectfully, T. R. CROUCH. We the undersigned, take pleasure in stating that we are personally acquainted with the above Thos. R. Crouch, and that his statements are true: Dr. H. H. Arnold, Maj. J. A. Ross, M. L. Langley, M. D., Arkadelphia, Ark.; R. H. Ettridge, Druggist, J. D. Corgie, Okolona, Ark.; N. L. Moore, M. D., Hollywood, Ark.; Rev. G. W. Shreve, W. P. Barton, Clark Springs, Arkansas.

ARKADELPHIA, ARK., Nov. 26, 1887. The statement made by Mr. Crouch is reliable and entirely correct. All persons mentioned are prominent citizens, and any statement they make are trustworthy. Yours truly, STEWART & BRO., Druggists.

HOLDING A HORSE.

How the Average Small Boy Will Perform This Pleasant Duty.

The other day Willie Green, one of Sioux Falls' small boys, was left by his father to hold his horse, which was attached to a carriage in front of the Green family residence for a few minutes. As you have never watched a small boy hold a horse you have missed a good deal.

Willie began by taking the strap in both hands, planting himself firmly in front of the animal and gazing into his face with a determined, defiant look. He was somewhat surprised that the horse remained perfectly still and evidently had no intention of making the violent plunges for freedom which he had expected. Just then another boy came along.

"Hello, Skinny!" said Willie.

"I'm holdin' this horse."

"Think I can't see nothin'?"

"Let 'em get away while I got 'em holdin' at last!"

"Does he bite?"

"Naw!"

"Kick?"

"Naw. Only once he bit kick-kicked at the barn door. But I guess he didn't know how to handle him. He never kicked at me."

"Course not. You order see my dad handle a horse."

"Oh, cracky! Bet your dad don't know half's much 'bout a horse as mine. This horse 'ud kick the daylight out of your dad in less'n a second."

"Wouldn't either?"

"Say, why don't you hold that horse if yer tryin' to?"

"Ain't I?"

"Naw, y' ain't! A baby could hold a horse when he wa'n't doin' nothin'."

But y' don't tickle his forehead legs with a straw."

"Bet I do!"

"There I do!"

Then Willie reached out and again carefully moved a straw up and down the horse's legs, looking up occasionally and noting with pleasure that the horse was beginning to move his ears and act uneasy.

"Whoa, Cap'n!" said Willie.

"You wanter jerk him when he acts that way," explained Skinny.

Willie accordingly jerked the strap and continued to tickle him with the straw to get him accustomed to it. Then Skinny came closer and began punching him in the ribs with his finger. The horse shook his head.

THE HUMAN EYE.

What Some Wicked Spectacle-Sellers Do to Injure It.

Having occasion to drop in at an optician's shop this morning, I asked the proprietor about the sign in the window, which read: "Examination of the eye made free of charge."

"Can't be," I said, "that you employ an oculist to prescribe glasses for your customers?"

"Not at all," was the reply. "We test the sight ourselves by means of those cards you see hung up at the other end of the store with letters of different sizes on them."

But is it possible for a person who has not made ocular science a study to apply such a test with accuracy?

"Well—ahem—that is, no, not quite; but we can do it with certainty enough, I guess. Any way, we have to, because all the other opticians advertise free examinations."

Now, this is true enough, and an outrage it is that these spectacle-makers, who are simply mechanics, possessing no knowledge beyond the grinding of lenses and such matters technical, should be permitted to practice by guess-work upon the most delicate and valuable of human organs.

The fitting of glasses is always a matter of great difficulty, even to the skilled oculist who has devoted half his life-time learning how. The lenses must be adapted with the utmost exactness to the necessities of the patient, for the slightest variation will cause a strain that will result sooner or later in dangerous disease.

Almost invariably one eye differs from the other in visual power, and one ocular defect is so readily mistaken for another that often only a physician can tell the difference. And yet people who pretend to have common sense go to the optical shopkeeper for glasses which in nine cases out of ten are all wrong, and which not infrequently ruin the vision irreparably.

In properly conducting an examination of the eye, it is necessary to inspect the interior of the optical camera. This is done by the aid of the ophthalmoscope, a circular mirror with a hole in the center. Holding this disk before the eye, the oculist looks through the hole in his disk, while the face of the glass reflects a ray of light into the "dark chamber." The ray, passing through that round hole called the pupil, illuminates the nerve screen that lines the eye, upon which the pictures of objects seen are formed by process very similar to that which we call photography. The interior of the wonderful organ being thus brightly lighted up, the observer can examine the ophthalmoscope to the status of a telescope. Up to that time nothing was known of the anatomy and pathology of the eye beyond such information as was obtainable from post-mortem dissection. Other advances were made nearly as primitive a stage of development as when the ancient Egyptians treated cataract by pushing the clouded vitreous lens down into the lower part of the eye, instead of cutting it out altogether, or as when the near-sighted Emperor Nero watched the gladiator show through a concave emerald, which he thought, because it helped his vision, was a magical gem. But now all ocular complaints are well understood—this is fortunate, since few have normal eyesight in these days—and the trouble of those who can not see as others do is remedied by suitable spectacles.—Boston Cor. Denver Republican.
